Job Title: Pastor

Hours: Full Time

Job Description:

Though from Scripture it is evident the church should have a plurality of elders, it is clear that some were devoted primarily to preaching and teaching (1 Tim. 5:17). This individual shall meet the qualifications outlined for elders (the terms pastor, elder, and bishop being synonymous) in 1 Timothy 3:1-7 and Titus 1:6-9.

The pastor shall be called to minister to the flock for an indefinite period of time, which shall begin at the time he assumes his duties.

Duties:

In addition to the general duties of elder, the pastor shall:

- Preach and teach the entire Word of God at the stated services of the church
- Administer the ordinances
- Visit the sick, infirm, and distressed of the flock
- Serve as chairman of the board, and act as a nonvoting member of all other church committees and panels
- Arrange for all special services in cooperation with the board
- Moderate all board meetings and church business meetings, except when the business concerns him personally, or when he may be absent (at such times, the vice-chairman shall preside overstated meetings)

Duties of elder:

- The elders shall be examples of godliness to the church and the community.
- They shall care for the spiritual welfare of the church members.
- As shepherds to the whole flock, they shall promote the spirit of unity and Christian fellowship within the body.
- They shall serve in a ruling capacity, in love and gentleness encouraging, building up, and admonishing the faithful.
- They will be entrusted with the teaching and instructing of the Lord's people, and in the pastor's absence, arrange for pulpit supply.
- They shall arbitrate disputes between church members, and when necessary, oversee the proper administration of church discipline.
- They shall assist in the administration of the Lord's Supper (Acts 20:28-30; Eph 4:11-16; 1 Tim. 3:1-7, Heb. 13:17, 24; I Peter 5:2-3).

- In cooperation with the deacons, the elders shall act, when necessary, as a general pulpit committee, until one can be appointed.
- They shall also, with the deacons, review for approval all who fill the pulpit in the pastor's absence.
- In cooperation with the deacons, the elders shall be responsible for oversight of the church finances, and the raising and appropriation of funds.
- They shall oversee the general operation of the church, and keep the trustees informed concerning necessary repairs, maintenance, and other issues concerning church property.
